

DAY 26: HUMILITY

There are so many people in your school that you do not really know. How can you ever lead them unless you know them? How can you meet their needs, if you have no insight into those needs? There are far too many people at your school who trudge through the day, counting the minutes until they can escape. They are disconnected. Reach out to these people and you'll find a huge, untapped resource. You'll strengthen the community in your school. You'll touch someone's life in a positive way. You may gain a new friend.

WE DARE YOU TO...

Ask someone to join you for lunch that you have observed consistently eating by themselves. Start a conversation centered on the individual, their family, interests, etc. so that you actually get to know something about the person. Use their name – and remember it for future encounters. Ask them to help on some ASB project; let them know they are needed.

"To become truly great, one has to stand with people, not above them."

- Charles de Montesquieu

"Life's most urgent question is: What are you doing for others?"

- Martin Luther King, Jr.
